Kites: All of Kites

What a busy week we have had, with school photographs taking place on Wednesday and lots of hard work going on throughout the school as always. The weather is turning, please do make sure your child is bringing a named coat to school for playtime. Wrens have been mastering the art of paper weaving this week, a very tricky skill and lots of persevering to do this. Robins have been investigating variable ready for their science experiment next week. Also they have been adding adjectives to their writing. Amongst other things Doves have been patiently creating watercolour masterpieces for their Christmas cards and developing their colour techniques. Owls have been creating Egyptian inspired art which are going to look very effective when completed. Kites and Owls are both completing a gymnastics section of their PE program and Kites particularly impressed Mrs Miles this week

Last week we congratulated those who had become School council members, Sports Ambassadors and Play Leaders. I am always so impressed with the courage it takes for children to put themselves forward for roles within school. Mrs Miles and Mrs Mills were particularly impressed with the quality and quantity of children who wanted to be a Sports Ambassador. I know they will all do a good job of the roles they have been assigned.

Next week we look ahead to the parent teacher meetings and look forward to welcoming lots of you to school to discuss the progress of your children. Usually, I would be in school to meet you but on Tuesday I need to go to a meeting in Trowbridge so sadly won't be in school. I look forward to seeing some of you on the Thursday and hope that you find the meetings worthwhile.

All the classes are starting to practice the Harvest Festival songs ready for the Harvest Service, 9am on the 17th. Do join us if you can. It will also be the first event that the School Council will organise. We wish you a happy weekend whatever you may be up to.
