Lots of children are doing really well with their reading hitting 25, 50, 75, 100, 125 and 150 nights. Well done and keep going!

After the excitement of last week I was rather hoping for a quiet week but Robins' toilets had other ideas, Miss Short and I arrived at school to find a considerable amount of (clean water) rushing out of one of the Robins' toilets on both Tuesday and Wednesday! We are incredibly grateful to Orla's Dad for stopping the flow of water, Mrs Cull's husband for fixing the pipework and I'm grateful to all the staff who mopped up the water. Hopefully we will dry up fully soon!

This week is as you know science week. Unfortunately, the workshops that were scheduled for Monday had to be postponed but will be happening next week on Tuesday and we look forward to these. I do know that a variety of science experiments and live lessons from experts have taken place across the classes and the children have really enjoyed these opportunities. Coke has exploded, colours have run into rainbows and bubble snakes have been created. I enjoyed eating the left over skittles!! Thank you to Mrs Miles for coordinating this.

We also had a visit from the group Dance 6-0. They are a dance group made up of over 60s who have created a dance around the book 'The Man Who planted Trees' which they performed for us on Tuesday and then they worked with Owls class. After what had been a busy morning of mopping floors, I felt it was a moment of calm and serenity. Watching the children's faces during the performance I think they agreed! As always, they were a wonderful audience. We are grateful to them for coming in, one of them had had a son who attended here and is now Year 10!

As I write this Robins are off on their trip to Longleat and I know they will have had a great day out. Thank you to the staff involved, Miss Short, Miss Ankers, Miss Brine and also our parent volunteers for giving up their time. I look forward to hearing all about it and also seeing the pictures.

We look ahead to next week where we have a netball team heading to Shaftesbury. It is also the FOSS AGM, do come along if you can. I hope that you all have a lovely restful weekend. Spring definitely seems to be in the air!
