What a lovely week of weather we have had! It has been so lovely to see the sun although it does feel a little cooler now. Please make sure that you are sending a coat in (named) for those chillier playtimes!

We have had two exciting visitors in this week, one big one small! The first was Jack, the dog from Tokes Farm, who popped in to see Owls class so that Lily (his owner) could talk a bit about Tokes farm. The other visitor popped in to see Doves class and was George's tractor! Thank you so much to his mum and dad for taking time out of their day to share this with the class and I was sorry I missed it!

Last week, Wrens and our older children spent some time choosing the buddies that will help them out as they navigate their first year at school. This is always a really lovely session where the children lead the play and make connections. Robins were busy investigating making cars for their DT project practicing joining techniques ready for refining the strategies. They have also been writing about emotions based on the film Inside Out. Doves, aside from the tractor, have continued their journey into the digestive system. Owls are looking at the viscosity of liquid in science, this is always a popular experiment. Kites continue their exploration of World War Two, focussing on the leaders of this period of history.

Overall, a great week for all the classes. Looking ahead to next week, it is individual school photos on Wednesday. Please could all children come to school in uniform ready for the photo and bring a change for either PE or Forest School if it is their day. The following week is parent teacher meetings, please do book your slot.

We wish you a happy weekend whether you are going to the carnival in in Shaftesbury or having a quiet time at home. We look forward to welcoming the children back to school on Monday.
